

The Hub is where you can access your Favorites, Reading List, History and Downloads

Web Note lets you write on the web page and then Share or Save to Favorites, One Note, Reading List

Share Web Note – Sharing a screenshot may be the easiest way. You'll need to have your email account established.

More is where you will find the commands and settings you're looking for including Print and Settings. Change your homepage here.

Back, Forward, Refresh Page and Home. If you don't see the Home button use the More button to access Settings, View Advanced Settings to turn Home button to On.

Reading view is used for reading articles and blogs, eliminating the other distractions on a page. The primary content from all pages of an article are combined into a single continuously scrolling page. If you don't see it, assume the page is not eligible to benefit from this view. Tap the Reading button again or press escape to exit.

Add to Favorites or your Reading List. It's easier now to rename the page for your Favorite List or make a new folder to organize your favorites.

Access Your Favorites

Turn on the Favorites Bar  More button - Settings - View Favorite Settings Show the favorites bar On

Use the Hub to access your Favorites. Organize with right-clicks and dragging method.
